We Want You!

Introducing the Collaborative Accessibility Exchange:

A Community-Built Housing Model and Pilot for Seniors and Families

The South Wedge Planning Committee (SWPC) is proud to announce the launch of the Collaborative Accessibility Exchange, a new community-driven initiative to design and test a housing model that helps seniors age in place while opening up larger homes for young families in the South Wedge of Rochester. Backed by a $20,000 grant by Council Women Lashay Harris with the City of Rochester this pilot will serve as a blueprint for intergenerational housing solutions—and we're inviting the public to help us shape it.

Together, let's build a model that works—for all generations!
